

Perfidia

Perfidia(jazz original scores) Perfidia by Cedar Walton Perfidia
 No one understands what I suffer
 As much as I can't sob anymore
 I am only trembling from anxiety
 They all look at me and go away

Woman, if you can speak with God
 Ask him if I, at any time
 Ever stopped adoring you

And the ocean, mirror of my heart
 The times it has seen me cry
 The perfidy of your love

I have looked for you everywhere I go
 And I can't find you
 What do I want your kisses for
 If your lips no longer want to kiss me

And you, who knows where you are
 Who knows what adventure you may have
 How far you are from me

Walton grew up in Dallas, Texas. After attending the University of Denver, Walton moved to New York in 1955. After a two year stint in the army in which he performed in a jazz ensemble, he joined Kenny Dorham's band. By the late 1950s Walton was playing with J. J. Johnson, the Art Farmer/Benny Golson Jazztet, and Gigi Gryce, and by 1959 he recorded on John Coltrane's seminal album Giant Steps.

In the early 1960s, he joined Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers as a pianist-arranger for 3 years, where he played with Wayne Shorter and Freddie Hubbard. He left the Messengers in 1964 and by the late 1960s was part of the house rhythm section at Prestige Records, where in addition to releasing his own recordings, he recorded with Sonny Criss, Pat Martino, Eric Kloss, and Charles McPherson.

During the mid-1970s, Walton led the funk group Mobius. He has also recorded with Abbey Lincoln, Lee Morgan, and led the band Eastern Rebellion. He continues to lead his own groups and freelance.

"Bolivia" is perhaps Walton's best known composition, while one of his oldest is "Fantasy in D", recorded under the title "Ugetsu" by Art Blakey in 1963.

Nadie comprende lo que sufro yo
Tanto que ya no puedo sollozar
Solo temblando de ansiedad estoy
Todos me miran y se van

To you
My heart cries out "Perfidia"
For I find you, the love of my life
In somebody else's arms

Your eyes are echoing "Perfidia"
Forgetful of the promise of love
You're sharing another's charms

With a sad lament my dreams are faded like a broken melody
While the gods of love look down and laugh
At what romantic fools we mortals be

And now
I find my love was not for you
And so I take it back with a sigh
Perfidia's won
Goodbye

With a sad lament my dreams are faded like a broken melody
While the gods of love look down and laugh
At what romantic fools we mortals be

And now
I find my love was not for you
And so I take it back with a sigh
Perfidia's won
Goodbye

Solo temblando de ansiedad estoy
Todos me miran y se van

Mujer, si puedes tu con Dios hablar
Preguntale si yo alguna vez
Te he dejado de adorar

Y al mar espejo de mi corazon
Las veces que me ha visto llorar
La perfidia de tu amor

Te he buscado por dondequiera que yo voy
Y no te puedo hallar
Para que quiero tus besos
Si tus labios no me quieren ya besar?

Y tu quien sabe por donde andaras
Quien sabe que aventura tendras
Que lejos estas de miThe Ventures
